

Amsterdam

Today the Commons Health Committee visited Amsterdam to see how this great city is making a positive difference for young people by working together to tackle childhood obesity and narrow the health inequality gap. It was inspirational to hear people sharing stories about improving children's wellbeing and turning around childhood obesity.